

FIND YOUR VOICE. MAKE IT HEARD.

Andrea Holland is an executive coach and founder at Holland Communications, LLC, a consulting company where she helps leaders tap into their greater potential to produce visionary results. Holland has over 20 years of experience working with executives at major brands like American Airlines, U.S Olympics, Dale Carnegie, Deloitte & Touche, Ford Canada and The Economist, as well as with Rochester, NY-based and regional clients like University of Rochester's Office of Equity & Inclusion, Simon Business School at University of Rochester, US Ceiling Corp, United Way, CUNY Institute for Law & Governance, and Wegmans Food Markets. Andrea is a Tedx speaker and a champion for causes that promote equity for BIPOC, Women and LGBTQ+ communities.

Andrea's passion is helping people to live courageously by "finding their voice & making it heard". A certified coach and accomplished speaker, she specializes in helping people connect with their own stories to increase self awareness that sets the stage for greater confidence, skill and outcomes that change their lives and the lives of others.

Andrea is Vice President of the Rochester Women's Business Council, and is a board member at Huther Doyle, University of Rochester Medical Center's Home Care Foundation and East House Foundation. She is a proud multiracial Latina, tired mom to a 4-year-old, and a 12-year member of sketch comedy troupe, "EstroFest".
